DAUGHERTY IS CALLED AWAY TO CHICAGO

Attorney General Firm In Avowal He Will Remain in Cabinet

OFFICIAL BUSINESS

Veterans' Bureau Business Reason Is Given for Sudden Leave Taking of Capitol by Daugherty

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Attorney General Daugherty arrived here today ostensible in connection with the grand jury investigation of the Veterans' Bureau. He had no statement to make in relation with the senate oil inquiry but indicated he expected to hold his place in the cabinet.

His determination not to resign without a hearing on the charges against him was reaffirmed in the face of growing pressure for his removal. He even refused to promise that he would vacate his post upon termination of the esenate inquiry, but it was apparent in other quarters that any plan for his retention beyond that time had been abandoned.

This conclusion in one of the most difficult problems with which Mr. Coolidge has had to deal since he entered the White House, followed an almost continuous succession of conferences in the midst of which the attorney general himself suddenly left Washington. It was announced after his departure that he had been called to Florida, where Mrs. Daugherty is ill, and would go by the way of Chicago to attend to public business there.

Last night his determination to remain attorney general pending the senate inquiry was announced to the public in his statement proposed before his departure and issued from the department of justice:

"It is not my purpose to even consider tendering my resignation as attorney general until after a fair hearing on charges preferred against me."

Previously he had made the same determined declaration to president Coolidge, after the president had laid before him in a conference of more than an hour the conclusions reached by the administration after a re-examination of the whole case. The White house refrained from any public statement; but it was evident that until Mr. Daugherty had announced definitely his refusal to retire under fire the belief in some administration quarters had been that his resignation was imminent.

VERNON EDMONDS INDICTED FOR HONEYCUTT KILLING

Vernon Edmonds has been indicted by the grand jury at Pineville for the alleged killing of Hiram Honeycutt in Middlesboro recently and the case is scheduled for trial tomorrow.

Witnesses for the Commonwealth were summoned here yesterday and those for the defense are being summoned today. Arthur Rhorer, appointed by the court as counsel for the defense in the preliminary examination, will represent the defendant, it is understood.

The defense, as well as the Commonwealth, is anxious to begin the trial and there seem to be no reasons on either side for its delay.

ALL GRACE NETTLETON CHILDREN WELL OF MEASLES

There have been fourteen cases of measles at the Grace Nettleton Home but all the children have recovered, according to Miss Elizabeth Jackson. Rumors that a death occurred there recently are unfounded, she says, as there has never been a death at the institution.

The Community Chest fund which is received by the home monthly is a great deal of help, Miss Jackson says, and the donations are greatly appreciated by those connected with the institution.

No Divorces for Them

Here are Miss Thelma Jenkins of Seattle and her wedded pair of love birds. This species is said to be so strictly monogamous, that if one of a mated couple dies, the other invariably pines away of a broken heart. Love birds call Australia and West Africa home. Once, when one of a valuable pair died, the owner placed a mirror in the cage, hoping the bird would mistake its own reflection for the real departed mate. But there was no warmth in what the glass held and the bereaved songster followed its destiny and died for love.

YOUTHFUL THIEVES FOUND WITH LOOT

Local Boys Admit Robberies Tuesday Night—Give Up $300 In Stolen Goods

The boys who took part in three robberies here Tuesday night have been arrested by the police and the third is expected to be taken this afternoon. Nearly $300 worth of merchandise, taken from the Brown Bros. store, has been recovered.

Clarence Dorton and Earl Jones, each about fourteen years old, were arrested today. Another boy named Collins was chased to Cumberland Gap where he escaped on the train but it is expected he will be taken soon.

The boys confessed to taking two hand-bags and a suit-case of loot from Brown Bros. This consisted of jewelry, shirts, suits of clothes and other valuable merchandise worth about $300. The Dorton boy buried his share of the loot in the Valley Ridge ore mine on the Virginia pike about six miles from here. He took the police to the cache and the loot was recovered.

Earl Jones hid his third of it under a building at the rear of the Middlesboro Steam laundry and likewise disclosed its hiding place. The Collins boy took his part of the stolen merchandise with him when he left.

The police worked a clever ruse to trap the boys. Having the Collins boy under suspicion, they employed a citizen who is well acquainted with the lad to aid in the work. This man gained the confidence of the boy and soon the latter told him all about the robberies, including the names of the other two participants. Becoming suspicious after he had divulged the secrets, Collins left town. The other boys were arrested soon after and confessed their part in the crime.

Nothing of value was taken from the Big Ben factory or the Allen Lumber company office. It is understood the boys will be held for the Juvenile court here.

KENTUCKY COAL SHIPMENT INCREASE IS REMARKABLE

Ed Hare, Cincinnati City Freight Agent of the Big Four railroad, in commenting on coal movement from the Eastern Kentucky coal fields delivered to his line by the L. & N. said, "The increase of coal tonnage moving from Eastern Kentucky to northern points is nothing short of remarkable judging by deliveries of commercial coal to our lines for in 1923 it jumped to 90,000 car loads, an increase of 17,000 cars, and, as you know, we also buy immense quantities of Eastern Kentucky coal. This increase, with the surface of Eastern Kentucky coal fields barely scratched, and the coal of high quality, bespeaks a wonderful future for these fields."—Appalachian Trade Journal.

DEPUTIES TAKEN TO MAYSVILLE PRISON

Bell County Men Again Transferred From Lexington, Where They Went Tuesday

The following item from the Lexington Herald in regard to the Bell County deputies held for the killing in Lee County, Virginia, Saturday, is of interest here:

Four men held Sunday and Monday in the Middlesboro city jail in connection with the shooting that resulted in the death of W. B. Sayler, federal prohibition agent, and William and John Littrell, were placed in the Fayette county jail Tuesday night while en route to Maysville, where the writs of habeas corpus served for the release of the possemen taken under advisement by Judge A. M. J. Cochran.

The four men, Hiden Bishop, D. C. Sellers, R. S. Saylor and Millard Overton, were transferred from the Middlesboro city jail to the Bell county jail at Pineville Monday night, from fear of violence, it was said. After removing the men to Pineville, it was decided to bring them on to Lexington, from where they went to Maysville yesterday.

The transfer of the prisoners from Middlesboro to Pineville was on a process issued by Circuit Judge J. G. Forrester, after Lexington prohibition officials had obtained the consent of the Middlesboro jailer and the plan had been vetoed by the mayor, according to report.

Writs of habeas corpus for the release of the men were issued by Judge Cochran after communications between Sawyer A. Smith, United States district attorney, and Samuel Collins, Henry S. McGuire, and others attached to the federal prohibition officers at Lexington. The writs were taken to Middlesboro Monday night by Deputy United States Marshal Flint Davis, when the mayor of Middlesboro refused to honor them. With the aid of Ben Golden, commonwealth's attorney, Davis procured papers from Judge Forrester authorizing the sheriff of Bell county to transfer the prisoners to Pineville.

The writs were executed by the sheriff, the prisoners were taken to Pineville, and early Tuesday morning were brought to Lexington by Davis, and James Howard, Jr., deputy jailer of Bell county. The party arrived over the L. and N. Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and left for Maysville this morning.

Who will contest the writs of habeas corpus at the Maysville hearing is not known, except that friends of the Virginia participants in the gun battle are expected to be present.

L. K. Rice who has been requested by the Commonwealth attorney of Lee county to manage the local angle of the case is in Maysville today for the hearing which it is understood, is a formality necessary after the issuance of a habeas corpus writ. Judge Rice is expected to return tonight or tomorrow.

Intimations of Amendment to Eliminate $6,000,000 for Lifting State Indebtedness

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 28.—Possible political alignments loomed prominently today in connection with the administration's seventy-five million dollar bond issue bill. Proponents declared lines were holding fast in the Senate for a successful vote but intimations from Republican sources were it would be amended if it passed eliminating six million for lifting the State indebtedness, meanwhile it is understood the bill will go into the rules committee monday.

COOLIDGE CHARMS JUDGE SAMPSON

Kentuckian Refutes Tale of President's Aloofness—Robsion Says Former Slated for Big Job

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Judge Flam Sampson, of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, left Washington Monday afternoon in a happy frame of mind over his prospects of winning the United States circuit judgeship. He was introduced to the President and when he left the White house he remarked that all of the stories afloat about the President being a cold and responsive man are pure imagination. "I found him to be one of the most delightful of men," said the judge.

"Judge Knappen, of Detroit, has not yet resigned, and it is not known how soon his resignation will be forthcoming. I am strongly of the belief that when the vacancy arises a Kentucky man will be appointed, and if the appointment goes to Kentucky, Judge Sampson will be the man," said Representative Robsion, quite emphatically.

SHOULD FIX WATER CONNECTIONS NOW

Commissioner Say This Should Be Done Before Spring Street Work Starts

Persons who live on streets scheduled for improvements this year and are contemplating having water connections made at their properties should do so before the street construction work begins, J. E. Evans, commissioner of streets, announced today.

By doing this before the improvement work begins they will facilitate the street work which was interrupted last year at times by water connections not being finished when construction company began its work. It will also save expense of taking up the pavement to late make such connections.

There are a large number of streets and sections of streets to be improved this spring though the following will take precedence, according to present plans: Cumberland avenue from Eighteenth street to Fitzpatrick avenue, which will be made of concrete, Eighteenth street from Cumberland to Lothbury avenue and the work at Petersboro and Cumberland avenue which was interrupted by the injunction last year.

The construction company is planning to begin work preliminary to be grinding the spring building program next week. Limestone, asphalt and other street building materials will be delivered and shipped here for the work. The actual work on the streets should be resumed a week or two fro mthat time, provided the fair weather continues.

The section of Fitzpatrick avenue on which a concrete base has already been made will be paved with asphalt early in the street improvement program. When the block under the railway bridge at Eighteenth street is completed, that section of East Cumberland avenue which has been closed all winter will be opened.

KIWANIANS TO HELP GOLFERS TO GET TOURNAMENT

To Urge State Association Meet Here For This Summer

R. E. HOWE SPEAKS

Rev. Reeves and John Howard Speak On Interesting Kiwanis Education Program Today

The Kiwanis Club, at their regular luncheon hour today, voted unanimously to get behind the effort of the local country club to bring the state golf tournament here this summer. They decided to send an invitation to the state golfer's association to meet here and voted to name a committee to plan some special entertainment for the golfers if they should come here.

The matter was brought up by R. E. Howe of Knoxville, formerly of this city, a visitor here today. He declared that the conventions we had held here had done more to devolp the town than any thing else. A. P. Liebig followed up this with the suggestion for backing up the Country Club and T. R. Hill and further suggested the entertainment of them.

Mr. Howe, in a short talk, predicted good business for this Kiwanis section in the next three years because of the agreement just signed by the Central Field operators which would make their coal higher priced than these as long as these mines are kept non-union. He appealed to the Kiwanis to back up the operators at this time, if for no other than selfish reasons.

Dr. J. H. Brooks was chairman of the meeting and gave the attendance prize which was drawn by Jack Caldwell, W. C. Stair, vice-president, was in the chair in the absence of the president, C. A. Blackburn.

On the regular program, two interesting educational talks were made. The first by the Rev. A. B. Reeves, was on the "Evolution of Kiwanis." In it he brought out that this club, established in 1915, had sprung into existence almost full grown. He spoke of the national, district and local organization, based on that of our government.

John Howard, speaking next on the "Ideals of Kiwanis," said he understood the club's primary purpose to be to help people who can not help themselves, to do what ought to be done for them, to help carry others burdens to smooth the road of life. The Kiwanis ideals, he said, were synonomous with the Golden Rule. The most could be accomplished, he concluded, by working together as a body of willing men, as this club had done.

Last on the program, particularly interesting, was a report of Dr. U. G. Trammell, chairman of the club's committee on the under-privileged child. He made several suggestions which he said he hoped the club, through the committee, might work out. These included a supervised playground, a city park, a community nursery for the children of working women, and several other like plans. He appealed to the club for further suggestion.

MISSIONARY BAPTISTS TO DISCUSS WEIGHTY MATTERS

Matters of weighty consideration will be taken up by Missionary Baptists in their Fifth Saturday meeting to be held at the of March at Mt. Zion Church near Ewing, Va.

Among the subjects to be discussed are: "Where will the general judgment me?" "Of what was the promised land of Canaan a type?" "Were Adam and Eve equal in transgression?" "Where was the spiritual birthplace of Jacob?" "What is the greatest evil of the present day?" "Did the church receive the commission to preach and baptize?"

The men listed to thresh out these questions which have baffled theologians for centuries are: Rev. Garrett Daniels, Rev. S. J. K. Muncy, C. S. Carter, Rev. Herndon, Dudley Dean, William Fry, Rev. J. E. Witt, C. D. Walton, Rev. John Vanhus, Jeff Fryar, Rev. Bobbie DeBusk, Rev. J. R. Lambert, Rev. H. S. Walton, James Owens, L. C. Minter, Arch Smith, Hobert Owens, Rev. NEW PEACE PLAN OFFER OF $25,000

Offer Made Public at Session of N. E. A. Department In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—A new peace plan offer of $25,000 for the most feasible plan for world peace based on educational and not political agencies, was made public today at the second day's session of the Department of Superintendence, National Educational Association's convention here.

The donor of the award, who is to remain anonymous, was said to be a retired Detroit banker, now living in California.

The offer and details of the plan were contained in President of the National Federation of Educational Association's address of Dr. E. O. Thomas of Augusta, Me., who is acting as representative for the Detroit banker.

A certified check for the amount of the award, Dr. Thomas said, now is on deposit in a Detroit bank. The basic idea of the plan, Dr. Thomas said, is to obtain a plan which will best instill in the minds of children the necessity for world accord. The contest will close July 1, 1924.

NEW NAMES FOR TEAPOT CASE IN TELEGRAMS

Oil Committee Continues to Get Information on Intrigues

SUMMON PALMER

Senator Willis Denies Implication—Wire Tells of $100,000 McLean Loaned Fall

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Several new names were found by the oil committee when it resumed the reading of telegrams exchanged with Washington by E. C. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, during his stay in Palm Beach. "Underwood," "Curtis," "Willis," "Eyes" and "the Duck" were among those said by McLean employes here to be among the persons the McLean interests sought to interest. The committee made no effort for the time being to identify those persons.

Among the telegrams read at the hearing today was one from John Major, one of McLean's confidential agents in Washington, to McLean at Palm Beach, which said the writer had arranged with Smithers at the White House to have our end of a private wire opened at six o'clock. The message was dated January 3. A message from McLean to Major, dated December 20, asked Major to see A. Mitchell Palmer in McLean's behalf and asserting McLean had no information which would be of any conceivable use to the committee, declared the only thing which could connect him with the Fall investigation was that McLean loaned Fall $100,000. He asserted he never met Sinclair, Doheny or any of the oil crowd.

The reading of the telegrams indicated the committee was to further investigate Harry Sinclair and E. L. Doheny. It included also the possibility of investigation of their income tax returns.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Senator Willis, Republican of Ohio, issued a formal statement today declaring he had no idea who was referred to in the telegrams before the oil committee saying "Willis" was concerning himself in the oil inquiry in behalf of Edward B. McLean.

A Thought

Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man.—Jas. 1.13.

Christian! thou knowest thou carriest gunpowder about thee. Desire them that carry fire to keep at a distance. It is a dangerous crisis, when a proud heart meets with flattering lips.—John Flavel.

THE TROUBLE WITH CONGRESS

Says the Washington Post, "the trouble is not with the business before congress, but with congress itself. It is the time wasted by it that runs against the nation. If its members will measure their words by the importance of the subjects under discussion and by the need for discussion, they will not run short of time for proper consideration of the nation's affairs."

It will hardly be denied that this is a reasonable view of the situation. The trouble is, there's too much talk. There are so many in the congress who are so in love with their own voices, they are cock sure that other people have the same feeling, hence they regard it a privilege for which the people are willing to pay.

But the people, not many, are willing to pay the price, especially in view of the fact that the business may be done and just as well done without congress assuming itself to be a common debating society. For some reason or other, the people of the country are not so fond of eloquent talk as they once were. It may be that the country has no Calhouns, Clays or Websters.

There is another reason. At small cost to the reader, the news is read every morning and every afternoon in the daily papers as it comes over the wires from all parts of the country and the world. As a rule the readers want the facts; then they reach their own conclusions, and express conclusions in their own language.

If there be those in the congress who feel they are there to talk more and think and work less, they have a wrong opinion of their own usefulness. If the congress wants to please the people and to serve the people the way to do it is to talk less and work more. If it is assumed that the people are not interested lookers-on, the assumption is without basis in fact.

They are watching the course of the present congress, at least in respect to taxation, with no small degree of interest, they will remember the acts of those who assume to be the representatives of popular opinion.

MIDDLESBORO'S DIRTY STREETS

Almost every one has talked about the dirty streets at some time or other and many demands to have them cleaned have been put forth. To every demand has come a soft answer from the city promising that the matter should be attended to immediately. Often it was attended to, the streets were cleaned the city took on a sanitary appearance for a few days and then—the streets were neglected again.

First there was the agitation for a hired street sweep. Then the people insisted that the city ordinance violators who did nothing all day but lounge in the jail until their sentence was served, or, more often, who did not even serve their sentence, should be put to work. Later still, was the urgent request for a street flusher to be used regularly on the streets to keep them entirely clean.

The street sweep was tried but didn't seem to work. The prisoners were tried, but that was too much trouble, too. Then the city voted to buy a flusher and it was announced that they had bought one. A little later it was learned that this one wasn't according to specifications. That is the last we have heard about it.

In the meantime the streets are filthy as ever, if not more so. Merchants continue to sweep their dirt and rubbish into the streets because no garbage containers have ever been provided. The dirt gathers in the gutters until it is distressingly unsightly. When it rains, great mudholes are formed and it is worth a shoe shine and then some to get into a car.

That is the condition of our fine new streets now. We pride ourselves on the appearance and beauty of our city. How can we when we allow this condition to go on and on and on?

CORPORATIONS MUST FILE TENTATIVE RETURNS

The following letter from Robert H. Lucas, internal revenue collector, with regard to corporation income states, tells of the extension of time for returns to June 15:

Under date of February 12, a Treasury Decision was issued by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue granting to Corporations (only) an extension of time for filing income tax returns for the calendar year 1923, and for fiscal years ending January 31, and February 29, 1924, to June 15, 1924 conditioned upon the filing of tentative returns within the regular periods. Publicity given the Commissioner's ruling by the press has been a little misleading so, in order that there may be no misunderstanding as to the requirements, the Treasury Decision quoted in full herewith:

Under the authority of Section 227 of the Revenue Act of 1921, a general extension of time is hereby granted domestic corporations up to and including June 15, 1924, for completing returns of income for the calendar year 1923, ending February 29, 1924, and the fiscal year tentative returns with the proper collector of internal revenue on or before March 15, April 15, and May 15, 1924, respectively, accompanied with at least one-fourth of the estimated amount of tax due together with a statement setting forth the reason why the return cannot be completed within the prescribed time, and a formal request for the extension.

Tentative returns submitted in accordance with the foregoing should be on Form 1120 for the calendar year and on Form 1120A for a fiscal year, on which should be written plainly across the face "Tentative Return." Only the name and address of the corporation and the estimated amount, if any, of the tax due need be stated.

Any deficiency in the first installment as determined upon submission of the final return will bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from March 15, April 15, or May 15, 1924, respectively.

TO SELL PROPERTY DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS MONDAY

The zero hour for delinquent taxpayers is near. Commissioner C. E. Cooke says that all property on which 1923 taxes, penalties and cost of advertising have not been paid by Monday will be sold at public auction at the city hall Monday morning.

About $7,000, approximately half of the delinquent 1923 taxes have been paid since the campaign for collections and advertising began. Much of the property, it was learned, had been improperly assessed and adjustments were made in all these cases.

All That Saved Him

"Is he a radio bug?"

"I wouldn't call him a bug. He's kept his last set a month."—Life.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Secretary of the Navy Denby was just as positive he wouldn't resign as Attorney General Daugherty is. Yet he resigned. So there's no certainty the pressure won't be too severe for Daugherty, too. If he did speculate in Sinclair oil—he hasn't admitted it—his he lost, besides. They won't. Ostall friends declare his dealings were small; he lost, besides. They don't say he meant to, though. Falsely accused, he claims—by certain senators, Daugherty talks of appealing to "the bar of public opinion"; how, isn't clear.

Presidential Secretaries

The Senate oil investigators plan to put President Coolidge's secretary, Bascom Slemp, on the pan. They want to know if he's chatted about the oil cases with anybody. Of course he has. It will be hearsay but mighty interesting if he talks freely. President Harding's secretary, George Christian, avoided investigation by asking President Coolidge to cancel his appointment to a job on the Federal Trade Commission. This happened after Chairman Thompson stated Christian, as secretary, had tried to influence the commission in favor of a movie concern. Christian said it wasn't so, but he didn't want to work with an uncongenial chairman.

Your Income Tax

In connection with the income tax fight, there's but on safe bet—there'll be no reduction in time to affect payments due March 15. Belated charges may mean rebates later on. To big taxpayers they'll mean something. To the average man they won't amount to much—perhaps a box of cigars. For all practical purposes, so far as 1923 is concerned, he's "stuck" at the present rate.

Waked Them Up

Prohibition may not have been jolted, but dry agents' methods were, when one of them, shooting at a mere suspect, in Washington, hit Senator Greene in the head. One of its own members having been nearly killed, Congress sat up with a jerk and began to investigate—especially Dry Commissioner Haynes', recent declaration that a few shootings didn't matter compared with enforcing the law.

Obregon's Job

Now that President Obregon, using American arms, has about squelched rebellion in Mexico, he's trying to amend the constitution, so as to stretch his term, soon to expire, by two years. Which hints at some truth in the charge by General de la Huerta, the beaten rebel leader, that the "Obregonistas" are trying to hang onto power by peculiar means.

France and Germany

Premier Poincare of France, whose policy has blocked every effort to put Germany in better business shape, is so weak politically now that maybe he won't be able to veto General Dawe's plan. Poincare has just won a test vote in the Paris Chamber of Deputies, but it's generally expected he'll lose the coming national election. Some of the papers even talk of a dictatorship under President Millerand, to crowd him out sooner than that.

NEGRO BOY STRIKES YOUNG STEINHOUR OVER THE HEAD

Forrest Steinhour, son of Capt. and Mrs. F. J. Steinhour, was injured yesterday when struck over the head with a lead pipe by a colored boy he was chasing.

Henry Duffield and Bill Givens, colored boys, had entered the rooms over the Brownie theatre, presumably with the intention of gaining entrance to the theatre auditorium. Policeman A. D. DeBusk chased them out and asked young Steinhour to help him.

When the boy had run the negroes as far as the hospital he grasped Givens by the coat. The colored boy struck him in the forehead with a piece of lead pipe, raising a big knot on the boy's head and temporarily dazing him. Duffield was caught by the police officer a few moments later

EVERETT TRUE—By Condo

Hannah Misunderstood

One evening, after finishing work at the mill, Hannah, with Martha, her friend, went to the clerk of the parish church to give notice of her intended marriage.

The clerk proceeded to fill up the usual forms and ask the necessary questions, which were timidly but correctly answered, until the clerk aksed, "Are you a spinster?"

"No, sir, I'm a weaver," replied Hannah. "Ain't I, Martha?"—Tit-bits (London).

Berton Braley's Poem

FINIS

I had some stocks
From out of which
I looked for rocks
To make me rich;
There was a crash,
The boom went flat;
I lost my cash—
And that was that!

I dreamed of fame,
I thought I'd make
A wondrous name
And no mistake!
Within the ring
I cast my hat
Fate hit me—bing!
And that was that.

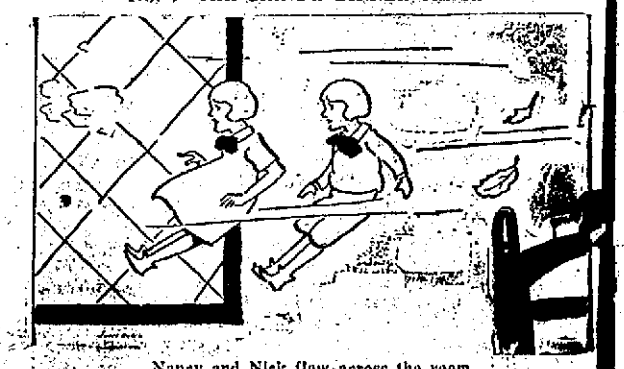
I loved a girl,
My head and heart
Were in a whirl
Right from the start;
She wed a guy
Gray, old and fat,
I heaved a sigh—
And that was that.

So, to rehearse
What went amiss,
I wrote a verse—
And that was this!

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 7—THE GIANT'S DINNER TABLE



Nancy and Nick flew across the room.

"My, what lovely flowers!" said Mrs. Giant as she sat down to dinner.

"Ho, ho! So they are!" declared Mr. Giant as he sat down to dinner.

"I thought they were nice, too, 'specially the roses!" said Polly Giant as she sat down to dinner.

And all the time the Twins were hiding away down in the heart of the biggest pink rose, listening to every word that was said, and peeping out curiously through the pink leaves to see what was going on!

Just then Mr. Giant took a spoonful of soup. And you should have heard him. And then Mrs. Giant took a spoonful and you should have heard her, too!

"Such manners!" declared Nancy in a shocked voice. She and Nick had always been taught that no matter what you eat, you must never make a sound, not even when you eat celery or toast or crackers.

She was so upset that she forgot to hold on for a minute and nearly fell out of the rose onto the tablecloth.

"What's that?" asked Mrs. Giant. "I do believe I saw a rose-bug, Polly! I'll have to get my glasses fixed for I can't be sure of anything."

But Nancy had scrambled back to her place again with Nick's help, and although the three giants watched carefully, not another thing did they see.

"I'll put some tobacco water on the rose bushes tomorrow," said Polly. "I meant to do it this morning, but I forgot. That's good for rose-bugs."

The Twins shivered. What if she had!

But there! I almost forgot to tell you what the Beanstalk giant fa had for dinner. First they had barrels of bean soup, then they three fried whales; after that had ostrich on toast with sen ton mashed potatoes, and a dish stewed corn-stalks big enough to a church. Christmas-tree salad next, followed by enough ice-c and cake to do a thousand childr thousand years.

But something dreadful happe Mr. Giant upset the pepper. Instantly the three of them sneezing their heads off, nearl was exactly as though North and West and Old Whizzy To were all blowing at once.

So how could you ever expec Twins to hold on to their p place? There wasn't anything to hold onto anyway, and with cyclones all coming at them, it simply impossible to hang on.

Nancy and Nick flew across room and landed right in Giant's work basket along wit needles and thread and thimbl tape measure and scissors and thing. Mrs. Giant's thimble w big as a scrubbing bucket, may know what an immense the basket was. Quite large for a wee boy and girl to get l

But they did not get lost.

They were going to have a adventure.

PATTERNS IN SNOW
(By Marie Kirwan.)

Did you ever lie straight on the snow
With arms tight down to your sides,
Then sweep them up until they touch above your head
Making an angel?

On First-day we had two hours to think of God
When in the white brick meeting-house we sat
We children with our mother on one side,
The men and father, being somehow different, on the other,
And up in front and facing us, on long seats raised above the other seats
Were those who talked with God, and told us what his spirit moved them to.

At times we sat there, almost to the end, without the spirit moving,
Hearing the sound of green wood snapping
Or some one's First-day shoes creak as he put sticks inside a great black stove.
Always above this stove danced something . . . air dancing,
It made me want to go to sleep—that, and the long, long stillness.
As I think of this long stillness,
This mellow silence in a house of God,
I would carve permanent
The patterns of that snow.

CATHOLIC, JEW AND PROTESTANT JOIN TO BRING CHILDREN BACK INTO FOLD

REV. W. M. HOWLETT (LEFT), MONSIGNOR MICHAEL LAVELLE (CENTER) AND RABBI DAVIS DE SOLA POOL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Catholic, Jew and Protestant leaders, putting aside all religious differences, have combined to stay the growing disrespect of the younger generation for orthodox teachings.

"If the ideals of America are to be carried forward," they say, "our youngsters must be grounded in the religious faiths of their fathers."

So they plan to establish week-day Sunday schools, where children will come after their other school hours, to refresh their minds with generous applications of the Old and New Testaments.

But it is only in this way, these educators believe, that the lack of respect and lack of idealism in personal conduct which are eating away our national life may be stopped.

So far the movement is limited to the children here. At a meeting of 800 representatives of all three religious faiths this slogan was adopted: "Every New York child under the systematic religious instruction of its faith." But eventually these leaders hope to enlarge it to cover the whole country. Working hand in hand to bring about this move are Dr. David De Sola Pool, rabbi, the right Rev. Monsignor Michael Lavelle, Catholic, and the Rev. Walter M. Howlett, Protestant.

Says the rabbi, who is head of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue: "Fully three-quarters of the Jewish children in the United States are receiving no systematic religious training.

"There is no one who reads the daily newspapers but who is aware that there is an alarming determination among all classes of population of personal and social mortality that brings so many young men in their teens and twenties into the courts.

"We cannot hope to maintain our high traditional Jewish standards so long as we as a community fail to give adequate moral and religious training to the child while he is still young and responsive."

Says Monsigner Lavelle:

"The moment to secure religious instructions for all the children is one of the most important projects before the public today. It concerns intimately the happiness of mankind, the salvation of immortal souls, the stability of the republic, the glory of our flag and the peace of the world.

"The obstacles are apathy and failure to realize the immense number of our children who receive no religious training whatsoever."

Says the Rev. Howlett, director of 400 daily vacation Bible schools.

"Figures show there are 282,066 children registered in the public schools of Manhattan and only 140,604 registered in Sunday schools. And the former figure does not include children in parochial schools while the latter includes children of all faiths.

"Probably only one child in five receives regular systematic religious instruction.

"Instead of fighting one another we should all get together and fight evil. You can't lose respect for law and have civilization persist. Our children must have religious and moral training."

And all agree that the training shall be outside of school hours and away from school buildings.

BRIDE AND TROUBLE FOR GREATGRANDPA

ASHLAND, Neb., Feb. 27.—When Levi Keiser, 79, a great-grand-father and Mrs. Irene C. Buell, in the vigorous 40's, wed, friendly platform steps to the justice of the peace.

But despite his faltering steps, Keiser wore a fedora hat and snappy college-boy clothes.

"He tries to be spry, but his legs won't let him," comments his brother, Eli.

Eli and Greatgrandpa Keiser's other heirs are asking the court to annul the marriage and declare him incompetent. They allege he is squandering his wealth.

As for the bride, one of Nebraska's best known women lawyers, she is ready to do the heirs battle.

And her aged husband isn't worried at all.

"Let 'em do what they can," he says. "I've fixed 'em. I'm old enough to know what I want and how to take care of myself."

WOMAN TO SPEAK ON NEAR EAST FROM WHAS

Kentucky folks who desire to know the truth about the Near East—particularly radio fans—will have a chance to hear it over WHAS, through the Times and Courier-Journal's broadcasting station, from the eloquent lips of a gifted woman, Dr. Mabel E. Elliott, Monday and Tuesday afternoons, March 3 and 4.

Heroism in the face of Turkish fire and in aiding the sufferers who escape from the Smyrna tragedy won her three high decorations from the Greek government. Her bravery as medical director of a vast area in the face of the greatest and most dangerous odds brought her the title of "The Twentieth Century Florence Nightingale." Dr. Elliott will be in Kentucky for a week but her first addresses will be over the radiophone. This will be a fine opportunity for "shut-ins" and others who will have no chance to attend her meetings to hear the story of one of the greatest adventures probably ever undertaken by an American woman. One cannot help being thrilled by Dr. Elliott's recountal of contact with hundreds of young Armenian girls as they were released from the harems of the Turk after the Armistice was declared. Mothers will want to hear of her experience in "mothering" 30,000 orphans when practically all were diseased.

Coty has the presidential bee in his bonnet.

"It is not true to say any responsible statesman is a close friend of England. Our differences are inevitable. Our whole trend of thought and of life is different.

"As to Daudet, he attacks Millerand because the president is cutting the props from under the feet of the Royalists. Daudet and his friends have one formula. They say the republic means disorder, lack of firmness, want of stability.

Kings? Bah!

"Daudet prates that what France needs is a king. Pooh! Look at them. The king of Italy, subject to his Mussolini; the king of Spain subject to his Riviera; the king of England a figurehead. The Hohenzollerns and the Romanoffs gone—weaklings, when they are not dangerous idiots.

"Millerand as dictator would put France right in a year. He would get things done, whereas now, with things pressing for solution we have Parliament with its eternal palaver. I believe in democratic government as much as any American does but we must al recognize that one of the weaknesses of parliamentary government is the eternal talk.

"Speeches do not make the franc worth more."

Opposition

"But," I suggested, "Senator Coty, in the 'Figaro,' says Millerand is too friendly to England and Leon Daudet, in the 'Action Francaise,' also attacks the president."

Herve replied:

"With Coty it is a personal matter. Coty has presented himself as the champion of the women of France. He is trying to extricate himself, out of her present difficulties, she will have to invest President Alexandre Millerand with the powers of a dictator for about a year!

This is the theme Gustave Herve has been expounding in his paper, "La Victoire." It is all the more surprising because Herve had been a militant Socialist. Opponents of Millerand have been referring to Harve as the chief of the president's figleaves and have said that his editorials accurately reflected the wishes and hopes of the man who sits in the Elysee Palace.

Emergency Act

"What I advocate is not destruction of the constitution," he repeated, "but adaption, which both bodies of our Parliament have the right to effect in times of stress. With our franc at almost four cents, the cost of living going up, thousands of useless officials on the payroll of the government, it is high time that something radical be done.

"Just as Clemenceau was the man to win the war for France, so Millerand is the man to win peace for France.

"Look around France and see what other man you can name. Poincare has been tried and failed. Poincare is a lawyer, an 'avocat' devoted to the letter rather than the spirit.

"You can get no where with such a man. He has no vision. He is honest and stubborn, but lacks breadth.

DETROIT MONEY TO BE USED ON KENTUCKY ROADS; OTHER CITIES AROUSING TO HIGHWAY NEEDS

LEXINGTON, Feb. 28.—J. W. Stephens, president of the Berea Bank and Trust company, and F. O. Clarke, director, together with A. F. Scruggs, secretary of the Berea Dixie road improvement fund, were visitors in Lexington Tuesday for a conference with N. Buckner and Charles O'Connor, of the Asheville Western Carolina Motor club in connection with execution of trusteeship for the $10,000 fund from Detroit and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

This fund, secured through the efforts of Mr. Buckner and Mr. O'Connor on a recent trip to Detroit, in company with Frank Switalski, manager of the Cincinnati Automobile club, stipulated its use on certain sections of road in Laurel and Rockcastle counties, and contingent on the entire road being opened.

Mr. Stephens states that the people of Berea are elated at the thought of a through highway during April and continuous thereafter, and spoke in high praise of the co-operation of every town from Richmond to Middlesboro inclusive and Paris, Cincinnati and Detroit and expressed the hope that Lexington would join in helping to finance this project and bring the road through the capital of the Blue Grass and not around it.

F. O. Clarke, dean of the vocational department of Berea College, stated that they now have over two miles of base rock on the road south from the Madison county line, and are working four forces, the Berea force under Foreman Tom Barrett; the Richmond force, under J. W. Todd; the Lexington force, under James Guinn, and the Cincinnati force, under George Gatliff.

Each of the forces is trying to outd othe other in point of work accomplished, Mr. Clarke declared, and together with the incentive to get a through North-South highway, and a free day on the part of the workers each pay day, a tremendous amount of work is being accomplished.

The four crews of men were given the name of a city that had given assurance of co-operating in this project and would supply a part of the payrolls and of course, Mr. Clarke added, Lexington was naturally expected to do what Berea, Pineville, Barbourville, Richmond, Middlesboro, and other places are doing. In that benefits, with the road mapped out and logged through Lexington, will yield Lexington profits as much or more than may likely come to all the places between Lexington and the Tennessee line.

Messrs. Buckner and O'Connor spoke to a mass meeting of citizens at Paris last night under the auspices of the Paris City Service club. Leading citizens of Paris are enthusiastic over the possibility of a through highway at once.

Contract for 5,500 handsome metal standardized signs to comply with all city, county and state highway department requirements was signed Tuesday by theexecutive officer of the western Carolina organization for signposting the highway from Detroit through Cincinnati to Middlesboro, Knoxville and Asheville to Miami and St. Petersburg, Mr. Buckner said.

Cincinnati Lumberman Says Mills In South Running Steadily—Opposes High Prices

J. C. West, president of the J. C. West Lumber company, one of the most important wholesale concerns in the Cincinnati lumber market, has returned from a two weeks' trip through Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama, where he visited the company's different band mill connections. He reports practically all the mills running full time and a few running both night and day. Most mills, he states, seem to have sufficient volume of roders, booked to exhaust the supply of dry stock but at the same time, of course, more is in the process of drying as the orders are being loaded. There seems to be a disposition on the part of a large part of the operators to hold prices somewhat stable on the present level rather than run the risk of stifling or discouraging business by advancing prices materially at this time. Mr. West states that while there is a noticeably better demand for hardwoods from the implement, furniture, automobile, box and woodworking industries in general, that in his opinion, any marked advance in prices might result in a boom of good business for a few months but most likely followed by a slowing up and lower prices later. —Appalachian Trade Journal.

Substitutes are generally more expensive in the end than genuine articles. Housewives have learned—they KNOW this is true where bakings are concerned.

Self rising flours are classed as substitutes for plain flour and good baking powder. The use of these special mixtures is very liable to result in false economy, failures and waste on bake day.

Remember there is a big difference, in many ways, between biscuits and other bakings made from these so-called self-rising flours and those made from good plain flour and a dependable leavener. Try the experiment—make a baking from each—convince yourself.

You will find the baking made from flour and baking powder far more attractive in appearance. It will raise higher—retain its full food value and taste better.

For best results, do not fail to use Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder, and a reliable brand of plain flour.

Just think of it—the sale of Calumet is 2½ times as much as that of any other brand. It contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Food Authorities. It is pure and sure.

You save when you buy it—you save when you use it.
